THE CONCILIATION POLICY.

A CLERGYMAN'S PROTEST.

EARNEST AND SINCERE WORDS.

A Religious Paper Stifling Criticism of the Policy.

We very cheerfully give space to the following correspondence which explains itself. Many readers will be surprised to learn that the miasma of political compromise has spread so far as to control the action of a religious paper which for years was one of the most courageous and earnest champions of universal liberty, and which is the organ of a denomination especially distinguished for its devotion to the Union cause and the equal rights of all citizens. That a venerable, retired clergyman, who so earnestly and cogently expresses his views on a question of vital importance to his country, should be denied a hearing in the columns of the Morning Star, indicates a more rapid progress in the suppression of free thought in the interest of policy than we had even imagined. The letters following would certainly do credit to the columns of any paper.

PITTSFIELD, Aug. 2, 1877.

To the Editor of the Whig & Courier

Dear Sir The noble, manly position you have so successfully maintained against fanatical odds, on the question of equal rights as against the new "Southern Policy" of the National Administration, encourages in obscure individual (a self-nominated F. Baptist minister) to ask of you the privilege, denied by the organ of his denomination, of presenting through your columns, his humble but earnest protest against what he deems a wicked and cowardly surrender of those sacred principles without which our profession of liberty and justice are a solemn mockery.

In asking you to publish articles prepared for the Morning Star, I have no personal wrongs to redress, but having waited some three months for a hearing through that channel, on a subject that seems to me of grave moment, and feeling it an imperative duty to give my humble voice against a great National wrong, I submit this request, not doubting that whatever your decision may be, you will get from both just and friendly motives.

You may be aware that the Morning Star from its origin up to the close of the war, at least, was an outspoken advocate of human freedom. But from some cause to me unaccountable, soon after the inauguration of President Hayes, it seems to have fallen into a sort of dog-day haze, shed which time it has emitted but little clear light on this subject.

God bless you, my dear sir, for your persistent battle for the right.

Fraternally yours,

W. C. STINSON.

I.

INTRODUCTORY.

Editor of the Morning Star

Dear Brother: Having had, and according to my ability, faithfully improved, my day of activity in matters of public interest; I have for several years felt myself excused on account of age and infirmity, from further participation in national affairs than quietly to cast my vote; leaving to younger and stronger men the more active duties of the citizen.

Having given the prime of my manhood and a liberal portion of my slender means to the propagation of those sentiments which I deemed essential to the equal rights of man of whatever color or condition, and having with heartfelt thanksgiving witnessed the culmination of those principles in breaking the fetters of the bondsman; little did I anticipate the strange revulsion in public sentiment on that subject, I now sorrowfully witness!

I have seen with painful amazement the right-about-face of one after another of the political and secular journals on this subject, which are now earnestly laboring to rebuild those things they have for years persistently sought to destroy, but I still hoped that the religious element of the press, which had heretofore lived in a higher atmosphere than truckling expediency, would, though evidently tardily, eventually come to the rescue. Among the papers last mentioned, I was happy to reckon with special confidence, our dear [illegible] which, for [illegible] perfectly reliable.

Judge then, dear brother, of my painful apprehension when within the last few weeks ominous significant feelers were put forth on the subject of the new "Southern policy," I still rested in the confident expectation that these feelers would be promptly met by leading men in our denomination; but for such remonstrance I have thus far waited in vain. And now, however humiliating the confession may be, I can do so no longer. Feeling, as I do, that silence would be a neglect of sacred duty, regarding the editorial of the present week, headed, "Let us have peace," I feel that the time to speak out is imperative. I close by respectfully asking a place in the Star for a few thoughts on that, to me, wonderful article.

II.

THOUGHTS ON THE "STAR" EDITORIAL OF MARCH 11, HEADED, "LET US HAVE PEACE."

1st. Your allusion to the President's recent and thorough investigation of the South Carolina and Louisiana cases.—I have yet to learn that the question of either law or justice was ever raised by the claimants, though I have watched the reports of them closely.

Papers in the interest of this new departure have ever and anon assured Southern leaders that the President's mind was made up; that the removal of all impediments to Southern rule was only a question of time; so a predetermined policy and not a "patient investigation," was evidently the rule of action in the case. And the gist of this policy as acknowledged in your article is to placate hungry, unrepentant rebels.

2d. You claim that the President acted wisely in not deciding between the contending governors.

But did he not take that course of action which must inevitably end in unseating Chamberlain, leaving in his place, his rival Hampton?

This I admit was a somewhat clever trick to avoid open, manly responsibility, but I frankly confess I cannot see the wisdom of such a course, and I firmly believe both Gen. and man will yet hold the President responsible for deciding between the two, the trick notwithstanding.

3d. You allude with evident childlike and no doubt sincere satisfaction to Hampton's pledge to protect the colored man in all his rights, and claim that even should he fail, the President will surely compel him in accordance with his inaugural pledge to fulfill faithfully that trust.

Answer: The confidence you express in the promise of an old slave-holder and ex-rebel is to me simply marvellous. Had you studied such characters for, the last thirty years as some have, you would, I think, be slow to bring this item into the defence of the President's policy. Then the evidently honest suggestion that the President may be relied on to compel Hampton to keep his pledges in regard to the negro is still more marvellous.—When? I ask, and how?

You claim that the President could not legally keep the troops there longer, though legally called in by the proper authority.

You seem strangely to forget that the President by his lenient action is most effectually closing the last possible door of legal appeal for help.

In the name of common-sense, and all that is sacred to liberty, why cud the military. Use only guaranty worth a straw, be removed till these pledges are fully redeemed? Why does the President dismount and spike his only reliable guns and then talk of compulsion?

Finally, I remark that the President's course is so clearly pursuant to a most inhumanous bargain with Southern leaders as to justly deprive him of the confidence of intelligent, candid men.

When it was first whispered by papers in the Southern interest that there was a mutual understanding between Mr. Hayes and the Southern leaders entirely satisfactory to them, it was treated with contempt as a base slander. But when we saw Southern leaders suddenly falter in their opposition to the counting under the Commission, and when we added to this the constant intimation of the President's determination to "withdraw the troops" and leave the negro to his fate in the blood-stained land of his former oppressors, the matter began to wear a serious aspect. And now when we see the President at the clamorous demand of the South, carrying out, step by step, the programme designated months ago, there is no longer rational room for doubting the reality of that infamous compact.

W. C. STINSON.

Pittsfield April, 1877.

P. S. I would here say to my friends that no more personal consideration inclined me to publish elsewhere these communications prepared especially for the Star; but this publication having been declined by that paper, and having waited long in the hope that it would see its error and recede from its position on the President's Southern policy, I at length, from a conviction of duty, feel justified in so doing.

W. C. S.

II.

FRUITS OF THE CONCILIATION POLICY

Editor of the Morning Star

Dear Brother: Having been permitted in your issue of June 6th, to present to your readers in brief, my views of the President's Southern policy, I beg leave to present in brief numbers, a cursory view of the fruits of that sort of policy, past, present and prospective.

But before entering upon this discussion, I wish it distinctly understood that I do not consider the ex-slaveholder a sinner above all men. In determining his moral status, I always have and do now, take into account his early training and surroundings, which surely were rather his misfortune than his fault.

Though I see in him serious faults, I freely admit there is much in him to admire. I like his out-spoken, though too oft overbearing, frankness. I like his alack-to-all-weness; his persistent, sometimes terrible earnestness. In some respects he is every whit a man. Instance his keen discernment of human character.

Horribly mistakes his man. If once betrayed, he is rarely caught the second time. If he has a mean job that he feels must be done, he scents his tool afar, chooses the rather to find it at the North than nearer home. The principal traits desired are suppleness and unscrupulous alacrity.

I like him for his innate scorn for the truckling sycophant. He may accept an unmanly concession when it suits his purpose, but looks with supreme contempt on its author—accepts the aid but despises the giver—evidently feels toward him much as the high-born Englishman toward Benedict Arnold.

On the other hand it must be said he is often imperiously exacting and cruelly unjust to all his accepted agents but those who bow cowing before his nod or beat a retreat when conscious, deliberate wrong intention. Indeed I have no less sympathy or patience with the truckling Northern sycophant, who will sell for a mess of pottage the noble principles drawn from his mother's breast, than with the hot-blooded Southron, with all his faults. So when I use the familiar terms North and South, it is not for the purpose of invidious distinction, but as a matter of convenience.

Thus much premised, I come now to present a brief review of the fruits of compromise, concession, and conciliation policy in the past, considering these several terms nearly enough synonymous for the present all-conducive the present policy being but a duplicate or reproduction of the past.

For brevity's sake I pass over by many

ZOTHOFF'S

FILIBUSTERING IN THE BRITISH COMMONS.

SCENES DURING A SESSION.

During Wednesday night's discussion Sir Stafford Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that the government intended to pass the South African Confederation bill if the House had to sit through the vacation.

Upon this, Mr. John O'Connor Power, liberal member for Mayo county, who had been made aware of the government tactics, charged the government with having organized a conspiracy to crush the Irish members. Immediately the House was in a tumult. The chairman demanded the withdrawal of the word "conspiracy." Mr. Power tried to explain, but the cries of "withdraw" drowned his voice. He finally withdrew the expression.

Mr. Gray, member for Tipperary, and one of the obstructionists, said the responsibility for the demoralization at the House rested on Sir Stafford Northcote. Strong measures should have been taken at first.

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, liberal member for Oxford city, said the reason that stronger action was not taken was on account of the weakness of the House, but to show the character of the contemptible classes to the country and give the obstructionists rope enough.

Mr. Gray cried—Hear, hear!—sneeringly.

Sir Patrick O'Brien, liberal member for King's county, objected to this, and intimated that Mr. Gray was a "shambug" and a "d——d fool," an expression which he had to withdraw at the parliamentary.

At 10 o'clock Thursday morning Mr. Biggar (obstructionist), liberal member from Cavan county, came into the House, and took the opportunity, on a motion to report progress, to say that he had had a good sleep and a good breakfast, and was now ready for any amount of legislation.

Messrs. Parnell and O'Connor Power then went out to rest, relieved by Mr. Biggar and others. Just before noon Sir Stafford Northcote, having been advised by Colonel Knatchbull-Hugessen, Liberal member for Sandwich, to let decidedly in the matter, thanked his supporters for the assistance he had rendered, and made a final appeal to the majority to yield, and said he hoped that in the absence of the honorable gentleman, whom he expected to arrive soon, the committee would persevere with the bill.

Mr. O'Donnell objected to regard this as a threat of coercion, and said that under the present circumstances he would refrain from the contest. As long as it was a question of physical endurance he and his friends were prepared to go on.

About noon the obstructionists discontinued active opposition, and at 2 P. M. the bill was completed in committee, amidst thunders of cheers several times repeated.

The scene throughout was animated and sometimes stormy. During the contest the chairman of the committee was relieved four times. There were also several rallies on the Treasury Bench. There were altogether twenty-two divisions. Within recent history there has been no parallel to the sitting. The House of Commons sat twenty-four hours on the Slavery Dunning-petition bill, but not on account of obstruction.

At ten minutes past 6 o'clock Thursday evening the House of Lords adjourned, after a session of twenty-six hours.

WOMAN'S SPHERE.—Home is woman's true sphere. There is nothing in this wide world that will confer greater honor upon her, than for to make that home a typical what society should be, and what heaven is in the graces of exalted character. All that is dear and holy, noble and divine, in society or heaven centers back to home, where woman presides as the angel of love.

Her seat is not in the halls of rude debate and legislation, nor in scenes of wars, display and vanity, with its show of pitiful ambitiousness, but in the quiet precincts of her home, where the blessed affections meet, and state and hatred are not allowed to enter. "Home is the throne of empires on which woman sits, the sceptre with which she wields the destiny of nations." Home, the shrine of her earliest hopes, around which all her heart strings cling, there spread and develop the woman's noblest sphere, as mother, daughter, sister, wife.

Sweet and holy are the cherished thrill of the loving mother's heart to her infant grasp, her lessons are the first precepts ever given, she is first known, best loved in infancy, and her watchful care duty is to form for earth and fit for heaven. How pure and unselfish is the love as she constantly seeks our interests, not her own, and thus through the changing scenes of life a mother's love extends and only ends with death.

As daughter, 'tis laid upon her overflowing duty, to be the aid of her aged mother, and repay her in the tenderest and gentlest attentions years as the hour that crowned her childhood and led her age from many cares, and smooth life's pathway to the grave. On such a daughter, heaven's brightest gifts are shed.

As sister, those who have not proved her kindness know nothing of its worth; she is always a gentle, sympathizing friend, and how oft she is instrumental in saving a brother from ruin—to lead life wandering step- to heaven.

But more than all, as wife, 'tis her duty to be a guardian angel to her husband, lift him up from any social interest or cause, neglect the hallowed duties of home, fail to watch over them with jealous trust, with unruffled vigilance, to keep that home the nursery of all the virtues, the sanctuary of the heart's deepest loves, the "holy of holies," where the divine presence is manifested in her looks, and be manifest in her actions.—Nodine Norwood, in Journal of Agriculture.

A BOSTON NOTION.—A "Whittling School" has been established in Boston, which promises to be a useful means of educating the hands of boys, and familiarizing them with the use of tools. A room has been fitted up with work benches, of which each boy is assigned four feet in length of a bench two and a half feet wide. Each section of the bench allotted to a boy is provided with a bench vise and a drawer containing carver's tools. Thirty-two boys attend the school on Tuesday and Friday evenings, and each is allowed twenty-four lessons in practical wood carving, under the instruction of competent workmen. It is not expected that the boys can be made finished workmen in such a short time, but simply that their whittling propensities may be turned to some good account by the education their hands receive. The experiment has been satisfactory in every way, and the cost has been extremely small, a few hundred dollars paying the current expenses for several months. The instruction is free, and the boys are allowed the free use of a set of tools, and of a limited quantity of material. Probably few workers there instructed will ever become wood carvers, but the control they may get by practice over every movement of the hand will prove of use to them in almost any trade or calling.

MEDICINAL HERBS.—July is the best month for gathering herbs for both family and stock. The leaves are full of sap, and therefore stronger than if they stood longer. My method for curing them is to tie them up in small bunches, with a cord around the stems (which are placed together), and hang them up on the rafters of some shed or back chamber. They have there the benefit of the sun and circulation of air, so they will not mildew. When perfectly dry, they can be crumpled in newspapers, or put into paper boxes and hung up on pegs, plainly upon them, and hung up in a dry place, handy to reach in an emergency. Thoroughwort, worm-wood, tobacco, smartweed, catnip and mayweed, are all useful, and should be saved by every person who keeps either a horse or a cow. It is not very pleasant when anything is sick or lame to be obliged to run to a neighbor's to beg of them herbs which you ought to have cared for yourself. Besides, perhaps they may need them to use themselves, be sure they wish you would. Try and your own herbs.—Country Gentleman.

He who is worthy thing to wish for, is the perfection of one's own character; and that can best be reached by a faithful discharge of present duties.

Republican State Convention.

The Republicans of Maine and all others, who propose to support the candidates of the Republican party in the pending election, are invited to send delegates to a State Convention, to be held in

GRANITE HALL, AUGUSTA,

Thursday, Aug. 9th, 1877, at 11 A. M.,

for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, to be supported at the September election, and to attend to such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation is entitled to one delegate and one additional delegate for every seventy-five votes given for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1877. A fraction of forty votes over the number which is entitled to one delegate, will be accorded a delegate. Substitutes can serve only for absent delegates of the county in which they reside.

The Republican State Committee will be in session in the state room of the Hall, to receive the credentials of the Convention.

By order of the Republican State Committee

JAMES G. BLAINE, Chairman.

J. O. SMITH, Secretary.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican voters of the County of Penobscot are hereby notified to meet by delegates in Convention at the CITY HALL IN BANGOR,

On Friday, the 10th day of August next,

at 10 o'clock A. M., to nominate candidates for four Senators, Register of Deeds, County Treasurer, and one County Commissioner, and to transact any other business that may come before the Convention.

BASIS.—Each city, town and plantation, or political, and for every fifty votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876, one additional delegate, for a fraction of over fifty five votes as cast for said fifty votes another delegate; and each town or plantation that cast less than five votes as aforesaid, and less than fifty, two delegates.

AN EARNEST PROTEST.

We print on our first page to-day the temperate but sincere and earnest protest of an aged clergyman against the surrender of principles vital to the cause of human freedom and National security. The fact that such a clear and patriotic expression of views was denied admission to the columns of a prominent religious paper, which has given its theft support to the abandonment of the loyal citizens of the South to minority control, affords a significant evidence of the revival and prevalence of that spirit of "compromise" which once before seemed to stupefy the North until its manhood was aroused by the booming of the rebel guns against Fort Sumter.

THE RIOTERS.

The local mob organ has requested us to notice some views expressed by the Boston Advertiser on the strikes and riots. We do not often find much to comment on in that paper, but the following, from an editorial of Saturday, contains more courage and sense than we could have expected, and we commend it to our communistic neighbor

> The present is a good time to teach these barbarians a lesson of obedience, and we trust it will be improved. The local authorities, we perceive, have made new arrests of rioters, but a squad of United States soldiers captured some 30 in one batch and escorted them to jail. Whether the State, whose executive officers are unable to arrest these disturbers of the peace, has a judiciary that will dare to enforce the severest penalties of the law on those who are captured for it by the General Government, remains to be seen. It would seem as if this sort of thing had gone far enough, and it was high time for somebody to suffer. Pretty much all the criminals who are being arrested for recent misbehavior are held, we observe, for offenses against the United States, that is, for intriguing with the hostile bands of roads which are in the control of the courts. The States show a disposition to invoke lenity, and to smooth over the whole matter by a kind of general amnesty, which is the best way to encourage a repetition of the offenses. Heavy fines and the penitentiary for the leaders of the lawless proceedings will have a sobering effect, and will serve for warning for the future that interference with the rights of others and the wanton destruction of property is not a safe method of seeking redress of grievance in this country.

THE CLEVELAND CONVENTION.

OPINIONS OF ITS WORK.

[By Cleveland Special to N. Y. Tribune.]

Congressman Garfield—On the whole the platform is a great deal better than most conventions arrive at in their efforts to express public opinion. The nomination of Judge West is an admirable one.—He is a great power upon the stump.

Senator Stanley Matthews—The nomination gives almost universal satisfaction, and the work of the Convention may be regarded as a great success. I feel confident we shall elect the ticket. Judge West is stronger than Judge Taft, for the reason that Taft's nomination, under the circumstances, would have been regarded as placing the party in an inconsistent position by casting doubt upon the sincerity of its profession of support of the Administration.

Congressman J. D. Cox—The result is one of those instances which peculiarly prove that the common sense of the multitude is better than the wisdom of the few. Judge West's nomination is the best thing we could have done.

Colonel Thompson (Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who has been watching the doings of the Convention keenly)—The ticket suits us Democrats well enough. Judge West is a good man, but not strong. Judge Taft was their best man, and I am delighted that they did not nominate him.

We thought the Commercial had previously reached the climax of stupidity, but its comments on the election of delegates in this city indicate a reserve fund of imbecility that is beyond any estimate.—The attempt to identify National politics with a contest over delegates to a County Convention was peculiarly original, but the argument that declares the Southern policy beaten nearly three to one and yet that its strength in the city is "alarming," could only have been conceived by the masterly logician of Central street. As a matter of fact known to everybody the county delegates represented simply the competition of individual candidates for the Senatorship, etc., and as to National issues, the delegates to the State Convention were elected unanimously in every Ward. Our neighbor needs a solidific powder.

The Republicans of Etna do not stop to mince words, but speak right out in the blantest kind of English, as will be seen by the resolutions printed elsewhere. That they have decided opinions is very evident and they do not at all lack the courage of their convictions. Their right to speak as Republicans no one will gainsay, for no town in Maine can boast a sturdier Republican record. At the last Presidential election they brought their vote squarely up to that of 1872, giving Hayes the same vote they cast for Grant, with all Republican majority of nearly five to one. They believe in the principles which they have sustained unwaveringly through years of trial, and they have not learned to apply smooth phrases to the abandonment of solemn pledges and the repudiation of fundamental doctrines. In these times of subserviency and "policy," a little healthy indignation and candor is needed to clear the atmosphere, and however conservative people may deprecate the employment of such emphatic language, they can but respect the earnestness and courage of the Etna Republicans in contrast with the smothering of honest convictions and manly sentiment in Ohio and elsewhere

"CIVIL SERVICE REFORM"

[From the Boston Traveller.]

"Non-interference in politics by federal officers," is the watchword of the policy organs. And yet one of the most supple of that class telegraphs from Washington:

> The President and his Cabinet feel gratified at the results of the Cleveland Convention. Judge West, the nominee for Governor, was the President's first choice of all available candidates. As early as two months ago, in private letters to friends in Ohio, who solicited his opinion, the President suggested two persons as the ones whom he thought the most suitable candidates to represent the present condition of politics. Of these persons the President's first choice was Judge West.

Is this an improper use of official influence, or can the King do no wrong? We ask that the light may be turned on. A good many people are groping in the shadow of this civil-service reform era

In discussing New York politics an organic reformer gives voice to these moral and elevating reflections:

> The administration evidently intends to recognize the Liberal Republican element in that State, and one of these two or three offices (in the Custom House) will certainly go to some man who is friendly to Mr. Fenton and who is not unfriendly to Mr. Lyarts. The administration has thus far indicated no purpose to use the patronage in New York so as to lend any considerable aid to the re-election of Mr Conkling to the Senate next year.

And still these are the days of the "disestablishment of the machine in politics" according to the cunning Schurz. For reform, it appears to us that the country feels too great a radiation of political influence from the Cabinet

DODGING AN ARREST IN ME.

[Washington Despatch to the Boston Herald.]

Assistant Secretary McCormick of the Treasury Department states that the effect of the order of the department forbidding more than one person of a family to be employed in the department, has been mitigated in many cases by exchanges with other departments. Thus where a valuable clerk has been discharged from the Treasury Department because some relative is retained, the discharged clerk has been allowed to find a clerk in the Interior or some other department and arrange on exchange of positions, provided the clerk with whom the exchange is made has not failed from a State having more than its quota in the Treasury Department. The new appointments made in the Treasury Department, therefore, have not all been inexperienced clerks.

THE "MANAGERS" AT CLEVELAND.

[From the New York Commercial Advertiser, Southern policy organ.]

> Notwithstanding all the orders of President Hayes against office-holders, and all the talk about civil service reform, the Ohio Republican Convention was managed and controlled by office-holders and men who make appointments. The ruling spirits at Cleveland were Stanley Matthews, Charles Foster, Gen Garfield, Speaker Grosvenor and forty other beneficiaries of the administration. The Tribune, Times, and all the civil service reform organs in the country have nothing to say in regard to the prominence taken in shaping the acts of the Cleveland Convention by these most offensive office-holders. Stanley Matthews holds closer relations with President Hayes that Senator Conkling, but he was rebuked with Grant. Mark the difference! The country has not forgotten the scandalous assaults made upon Senator Conkling because of his appearance at a Republican Convention." Mr. Curtis will say by the proceedings of the Cleveland Convention, that he is fooling away his time growling about office-holders interfering in elections. We suggest to the Presidents to be done with the gammon. The farce is too ridiculous."

THE GREAT ADMINISTRATION POLICY-MAKER

Considering the intimate political relations existing not only between the Hon. Stanley Matthews and President Hayes, but also his especial identification with the administration's "Southern policy," it is somewhat surprising to find even the most pronounced policy supporters rounding and becoming the great policy-maker, as follows

[From the New York Evening Post.]

> This nonsense and treachery is the work of Mr Stanley Matthews, who, by a combination of unlucky circumstances, is a United States Senator-elect for Ohio. The course of this ridiculous person has been such as to prepare the public to believe that he is the one man in all Ohio, we had almost said in the whole country, who would contrive such a piece of stupid stultification. It seems to be in order just now to use plain speech in respect to Mr. Stanley Matthews. It has not taken him long to prove that his abilities are surpassed by his failures, and that he possesses in an eminent degree the qualifications of a shallow statesman of the first class. * * * Stanley Matthews took occasion to visit New York, and to make known, at every suitable or unsuitable opportunity, his opinion that silver coin was an excellent thing with which to pay the 4 per centum bonds and all other bonds; that the silver dollar ought to be restored and made a full legal tender for all debts, public and private. * * * The astonished merchants and bankers began to ask themselves whether there was any official authority, even the remotest, for his wild Western talk. * * * It is easy to imagine the mischief which this man would have worked if his vagaries had not been promptly disavowed. * * * As it turned out, however, happily, but with no thanks due to him, the unquiet tongue of Mr. Stanley Matthews worked out a beneficial result. The first thing to do Ohio Republicans ought to do is to take a summary view of Mr. Stanley Matthews and his election nonsense.

[From the Worcester Spy.]

> A few months ago Stanley Matthews had an excellent reputation, and he might have had it still, if he had not given his whole attention to destroying it. He fostered it away by his political manœuvres last spring, and his bloodthirsty officiousness in selling himself up as the keeper of the President's conscience and dispenser of his patronage; he made the utter and final wreck of what was left of it by his performance in the canvass of the Ohio convention yesterday, when he proposed that the convention should surrender to the Independents. Garfield, Foster and Cox withstood him to his face, and prevailed against him. Matthews may have been a success as a Judge, but as a politician he is the most disgraceful failure of his generation.

> Well, Messieurs Post and Spy, the Southern Policy is Stanley Matthews from skin to core, and from first to last he has been recognized as the leading spirit of the Hayes Administration, President Hayes, while not Senator and President Hayes sent him to Ohio to "arrange" for an indorsement of the Administration. You can't play Hamlet and at the same time kick the Prince of Denmark down the back stairs.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

Hitty's Strange History. The latest addition to the "No Name Series" bears the above title and also the fact involved the reader that it is by the author of "Mercy Philbrick's choice," the first of the series. The story is enchanting both for its thorough going originality and the strength of its characters, each drawn with a boldness that awakens the reader's keenest interest, though sometimes the heroine seems too masculine, yet the circumstances and surroundings seem to demand the quality in excess, and the reader finds that his view and not the author is at fault in the portrayal. There is a depth of tender-loving womanliness brought out in the "strange history" in marked contrast with the many "popular novel" characters which is refreshing to the reader. Hetty is a woman, not a love-sick, soft-pated girl, who through a series of trials becomes a woman or rather the semblance of one. She is a woman in the truest sense of the term. The wooing and love scenes between her and Dr. Williams are not according to the stereotyped style of "popular novels," but are womanly and manly throughout, not shapering, boorish and dashing honestly. Gave two man and woman, are lovers as strong manhood and womanhood, untrammelled by conventionalities, unawed by truth, and calmly considering the matter in their great strength of character would be expected to love, fully, unreservedly. The ending of the story is strange, and at first strikes the reader as harsh, but it is in keeping with the characters, peculiar, but thoroughly interesting because it is original and well drawn. Whoever reads this volume will read it again with as much pleasure as the first reading give. Give us more of the "No Name Series." The volumes are good wholesome reading, devoid of coarseness, of sickish sentiment and are well written, original, interesting, good. Roberts Brothers, Boston Publishers. For sale by Bugbee.

THE WONDERFUL ADVENTURES OF A POSTMAN. This is the fifth volume of the "Town and County Series," from the Publishing house of Roberts Brothers. The story is of two young ladies who make a journey from Boston to Texas and their many adventures. Each meeting with Haydock and Bunkerhoff and the wooing of the two maids. It is a very charming story for these summer days and will be a fine addition to the tourist's library. The book is finely bound and sold for one dollar. Bugbee & Co. has them.

HARRISON'S PERISTALTIC LOZENGES.

A POSITIVE CURE FOR

Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Piles, Oppression after Eating, Headache, Dizziness,

For thirty years these Lozenges have retained the confidence of the Medical Faculty and the public generally, in spite of all the spurious imitations. They are the most effectual remedy for HABITUAL CONSTIPATION and its results, viz: Piles, Indigestion, Headache, Dizziness, Languor, Oppression of Food, Heartburn, Flatulence, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Torpid Liver, &c., &c.

Invalids who cannot endure strong purgatives and these Lozenges are admirably suited to the many complaints incident to their sex, by restoring natural and preventing periodical pains and obstructions. They are also just the thing for children suffering with worms, being a sure cure, and as agreeable to take as the most pleasant confection. Travelers and the Lozenges are what they can not be without, as they are so compact as I long during that they may be carried in the vest pocket, and as an aperient or laxative they are unequalled

To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Hannah Inman, late of Howland, in said county, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay the just debts and charges of administration by about one hundred and fifty dollars.

Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant him a license to sell, at public or private sale, as he may deem best, all the real estate of said deceased in Enfield in said County, being the title and interest in lot No. 2 in said Enfield, and all of the real estate of the deceased, as the residue would be greatly impaired by a partial sale of any entire portion thereof, to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale and charges of administration.

Said real estate is the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County, Vol 420, page 6

But Bound to Conquer Turkey.

A Terrible Panic

NEW YORK Aug 4 A Vienna correspondent telegraphs that the wildest panic prevails in every where in Bulgaria, where the Russians have suddenly abandoned places which escaped Plevna and all the roads lead in confusion Everywhere warning with fugitives from Turkish rule and men are seen to move every where shown them

The English Channel Fleet

LONDON Aug 4 The News states that the channel squadron is ordered to Vigo, but whether it will proceed to the Mediterranean remains undecided at present will depend upon the situation which may arise from the revival in Spain

Reinforcements

A Vienna correspondent hears from Constantinople that reinforcements are constantly arriving and being immediately despatched to Adrianople

The Plevna Defeat

A Bucharest correspondent reviewing the situation says he thinks the panic in Roumania groundless The Plevna defeat will certainly be retrieved

Schipka Pass

The Cossack contingent who recently passed through Schipka Pass to rejoin their regiments, found the Pass still strongly occupied and fortified There are already with the army in front of Sophia and Tirnova Prince Mirsky and the General Staff left Bucharest for the front on the 30th, to be present at the battle

Russian Batteries Silenced

LONDON Aug 4 A despatch from Suleiman Baker, dated 31 says the Turkish frigate Mahmoudieh and the Peshkadir Tabia silenced the Russian batteries on the 30th, the effective fire of every Russian gun The Mahmoudieh was constantly manned, and all of the crew were killed and wounded

Turks Withdraw from Caucasus

NEW YORK, Aug 4 Despatches from Erzeroum say the Turks have withdrawn from Kars, Ardahan and Batoum, and are concentrating at Erzeroum, Bayazid and Olti

Turkish Losses

LONDON Aug 4 The Turkish losses in the battles of the 30th and 31st are estimated at 15,000 killed and wounded

Turkish Plan

It is believed to be Osman Pasha to fight eastward and Mehemet Ali to advance westward upon Plevna while Suleiman Pasha endeavors to force the Russian position at Kozzandli From apparently well authenticated reports of both sides, murder and outrages by Bashi Bazouks, Bulgarians and Cossacks say the war is in its cruelty, character of savagery which threatens to make it a war of extermination for all inhabitants of the territory involved whether Christian or Mahometan

In Asia

The inactivity of the Russians to advance from Ardahan is confirmed by news that their outposts are pushed forward as far as Kuruk Another division is marching to Artanesh which commands the road from Batoum to Olti A third column of apparently fresh forces is occupying the line of Adjara river, south of Batoum The reckless manner in which the opposing forces

War Reports and Rumors

A Bucharest correspondent telegraphs that there is no truth in the rumor that the Russians recaptured Plevna but measures are being taken to that end.

The defeat of Osman Pasha is independent to the safety of the Russian lines of communication Reinforcements are being pushed forward from all points north of the Danube

HALIFAX.

The Fisheries Question

NEW YORK Aug 2 A Halifax despatch says the American course before the fisheries commission staggered the British counsel. The American claim that throwing open the American market to Canada to fishermen has profited the latter as much as open Canadian fisheries profited Americans The American case rests principally upon the evidence of Canadian Ministers Sir John McDonald's speeches on his return from Washington as Canadian representative at the High Joint Commission, are quoted in support of the American case.

LETTER FROM BLUEHILL

Description of the Mines

BLUEHILL July 31 1877

MR EDITOR—A the mines in this vicinity continue to attract much interest to some of your readers I have a more about them

The Blue Hill copper mine, about two miles and three quarters silver mine, about eight miles southwesterly from the village and mineral deposits already discovered in various places between the point and the

I visited the copper mine in company with the principal owner and worker He is reputed to be a California miner of large experience When he takes hold of an enterprise—if his physiognomy does not belie him—it is with a bull dog tenacity never slacking till the object sought is accomplished, or it ceases to be within the range of possibility The Blue Hill enterprise contributes more than all else to the success of a new or less enterprise

This mine is owned and worked by a company Twenty thousand shares at ten dollars each, or $200 000 represent its value One fourth of the shares sold are used for working capital

The company appear to be indifferent about selling stock at present They first intend to develop it to that extent that there can be no question of its value then there will be a demand for all shares they wish to sell

This mine embraces a hill of about sixty acres something like but more abrupt than Thomas Hill All ought the hill seems wholly of ledge and broken rock still a fifty and dense growth of small trees find ample soil for subsistence The work thus far at the mine consists of the large piles of the ore mined, and the continued drilling and blasting of a drift mines

No machinery has as yet been introduced, but a Blake crusher, Cornish pulverizer and separator with a fifty horse-power steam engine to run them are soon to be set up The smelting, or final process for reducing to ingot copper will be done elsewhere for the present

Two tunnels have been started at the sides from distant points and are to grade ally rise and meet at the centre of the hill This grade of the tunnel is for drainage as well as gravitation, which takes the loaded car down the tramway to the crusher, and by an endless line returns an empty car

This ore is of a dark color filled with bright sparkles, resembling the heavens in a clear, moonless night, and in many places in the rocks are brighter belts like the milky way. These bright streaks are very rich in mineral. The rock is pure quartz when separated from the mineral The mineral gives it the dark color, as it is light after separation.

Assays of the best ore mined here give twenty-eight per cent., or 560 pounds of pure copper to the ton of ore. This, at sixteen cents per pound gives $89 60 per ton But the ore averages about ten per cent., or 200 pounds per ton, valued at $32 [illegible]

The celebrated Comstock silver mine, from which so many millions have and will continue to be taken, averages $30 per ton of ore. This copper mine seems to be inexhaustible. It is quite a mountain. I have explored it for two days, and that sparkle in the rock is on every hand While I was at the mines a single blast started a block of ore estimated at 8[illegible] tons Two hundred dollars will extract from this fifty tons $1000 worth of copper And yet there seems to be no interest here in regard to the mine outside of those operating it

Any one wishing to invest in first or like enterprises, need run no risk by a false assay or other deceptions too often practiced Visit the mine, select your ore weigh it beat it to a fine powder—out the sulphur—which shows by a blue blast—pound fine in mill heaps, put it into crucibles or brass-foundries crucible, mix in borax and with charcoal on a block with forge you can melt down the metal and you know for a certainty what per cent it bears This is simple assaying, done on a small scale at a trifling cost But if an Eagle or Bunker Hill mine will yield tons of copper per ton to the acre Another blast sends off the lighter ore rock just le

VEGETINE.

Purifies the Blood, Renovates and Invigorates the Whole System.

ITS MEDICINAL PROPERTIES ARE

Alterative, Tonic, Solvent and Diuretic.

VEGETINE is made exclusively from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated, that it will effectually eradicate from the system every taint of SCROFULA, SCROFULOUS HUMOR, TUMORS, CANCER, CANCEROUS HUMOR, ERYSIPELAS, SALT RHEUM, SYPHILITIC DISEASES, CANKER, PAINTERS' AND THE STOMACH, and all diseases that arise from impure blood SCIATICA, INFLAMMATION and GENERAL RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, DEBILITY AND NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

FOR ULCERS AND ACTIVE DISEASES OF THE SKIN, PUSTULES, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, BOILS, TETTERS, SCALD HEAD AND RINGWORM, VEGETINE CAN SCARCELY BE SPOKEN OF TOO HIGHLY.

FOR PAINS IN THE BACK, KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, DROPSY, FEMALE WEAKNESS, LEUCORRHŒA, and all those painful diseases arising from internal obstructions, VEGETINE is unequaled, and GENERAL DEBILITY, SYPHILITIS also directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the excretive organs, keeps inflammation, constipation and regulates the bowels.

FOR CATARRH, DYSPEPSIA, HABITUAL COSTIVENESS, DISSIPATION OF THE SYSTEM, NERVOUSNESS, NIGHT SWEATS, NERVOUS COMPLAINTS, PROSTRATION OF THE NERVOUS SYSTEM, no medicine has given such perfect satisfaction as the VEGETINE. It is the only true blood purifier and renovating principle, and possesses a controlling power over the most obstinate diseases.

The remarkable success effected by VEGETINE, have induced many physicians, apothecaries and others to make known its properties, and use it in their own families.

In fact, VEGETINE is the best remedy yet discovered for the above complaints, and is the only reliable BLOOD PURIFIER yet placed before the public.

THE BEST EVIDENCE.

The following letter from Rev. C. N. Heal, Pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., can be read with interest by many physicians. Also, from other testimonials in the possession of the proprietor, as there is no doubt about the curative properties of VEGETINE.

NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS: DEAR SIR,—With much good reason for so speaking your VEGETINE is not before the public. Actuated by this belief, several months ago I commenced the use of it. My health had been poor for several years, so that for the last two years I was hardly able to perform the labors of my calling. I found by experience a distressing weakness, and was unable to preach, and I do now join the public in declaring that my health was never better. I have used VEGETINE in my family, and have given it to others, and in every case it has done all that is claimed for it. I do not hesitate to say that VEGETINE is the best blood purifier with which I am acquainted. I cheerfully recommend it to all who are afflicted with scrofulous affections, and with confidence that it will do for them what it has done for me. Yours truly,

C. N. HEAL.

Though there is still some discharge from the ear, the effect of Dr. Bull's Syringe is more than half of one case that it has done in a little time, in my family alone.

He has taken also at three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but I only use but little as he dislikes that more than he likes the medicine.

Respectfully yours, E. BULL.

Mar. 2, '77. 26 Allen street.

Pierce's Great Internal Remedy.

Rheumatism and Neuralgia.

This remedy is the result of the research of one of the Proprietors, who has been a sufferer for years and who had tried all the advertised remedies and well of many physicians without relief. A radical cure was obtained, and numerous similar cures were effected previously to giving it to the public. The Proprietors are willing to refund the money to any one who has not received benefit after using two bottles according to directions. Their confidence in its merits is based on the fact that they have given it a thorough test in their own practice, and in every case it has done all that is claimed for it. It is manufactured entirely from vegetable gums, and is simply compounded with Sweet Spirits of Nitre. It is so harmless that it may be taken by infants with safety, and so powerful in its effects that it will cure the most obstinate case in a few days. It is a sure cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Lumbago, Backache, Pains in the Side, Chest, Limbs and Joints, Sciatica, Soreness of the Muscles, Stiffness of the Joints, Numbness, Contraction of the Muscles, Cramps and Spasms, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Female Weakness, Hysterics, Diseases of the Kidneys, Inflammation of the Bladder, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Blood Poisoning, Ulcers, Old Sores, Boils, Felons, Carbuncles, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Pimples on the Face, Blotches on the Skin, Moth Patches, Freckles, Tan, Sunburn, Chilblains, Frost Bites, Chapped Hands, Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the Chest, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, Jaundice, Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chills and Fever, Typhoid Fever, Scarlet Fever, Measles, Mumps, Whitlow, Felon, Gout, Canker, Dysentery, Bleeding of the Lungs, Stomach, Bowels or Kidneys, Pain in the Back, Kidneys, Spine or Loins, Nervous Debility, Female Complaints, Epilepsy or Fits, Spasms, St. Vitus' Dance, Tetanus or Lockjaw, Mumps, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Colic, Cramps and Pains of the Stomach, Bowels or Limbs, Cholera Morbus, Vomiting, Sick Headache, Colds, Chills and Fever, Ague, Fever and Ague, Bilious Fever, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux, Scalds, Burns, Bruises, Cuts, Sprains, Toothache, Earache, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, Scurvy, Boils, Felons, Corns, Warts, Chilblains, Frost Bites, and Stings of Insects.
